

Avoidance Actions

In bankruptcy matters where avoidance actions may come into play, our team at Burr & Forman is experienced in prosecuting and defending hundreds of fraudulent transfer actions and preference actions across the country.

Our bankruptcy team at Burr & Forman has a solid history of involvement in major bankruptcy proceedings in the Southeast and on the national level. Our substantial experience in this area includes representation of clients in the manufacturing, real estate, health care, agriculture, retail, education, and construction industries. On the creditor side, we represent secured creditors, such as financial services institutions, asset-based lenders, and local, regional, and national banks, as well as REITs, equipment sellers, and lessors.

In addition, our experience extends to representing official creditors' committees, bank debt and ad hoc creditor groups, secured lenders, equity holders, derivative and swap counterparties, and other creditors in out-of-court reorganizations, debt restructurings, enforcement processes, liability management strategies, and bankruptcy proceedings.

PROFESSIONALS

Erich N. Durlacher

J. Cory Falgowski

Michael L. Hall

Heather A. Jamison

Joe A. Joseph

Robert C. Matthews

Derek F. Meek

Graham H. Stieglitz

J. Patrick Warfield

RELATED AREAS

Bankruptcy Litigation

Lender Liability

Real Estate

RELATED INDUSTRIES

Financial Services

Health Care