Orlando, Fla. - In an article published in UCFToday on June 1, 2015, Orlando office managing partner Eric Golden discusses the Burr & Forman Scholar Development Fund, established this past spring. The scholarship provides summer provisions for students in the Burnett Honors College. Golden explained that his own experience as a scholarship-receiving baseball player for UCF makes him personally appreciative of supplemental funding. He attributes scholarships to be the means by which he got a top notch education, and eventually became a successful lawyer and businessman. For these reasons, he was inspired to give back, saying, "Our firm feels very strongly about giving back to our community and what better place to give back than our university."
