Thrace-Linq, a supplier to the global textile industry, recently announced a $9 million expansion of its Summerville, S.C. facility to include a new state-of-the-art production line, set to be installed in early 2018.

Based in Summerville, S.C., the facility makes non-woven fabrics for a broad range of technical textile applications, some of which include civil, environmental, industrial, and agricultural uses. The company has also invested in new technology in Athens, Greece to help support their geosynthetics business.

McNair Law Firm, P.A. acted as legal counsel to Thrace-Linq in the expansion project.
